Tainan

The taste of Taiwan

Traveled and recommended by food writer Chen Ching Yi and Penang's very own fame chef, Chef Zachary Choong of Kebaya Dining Room. Giving you fun insights of Tainan, the Food Capital of Taiwan.

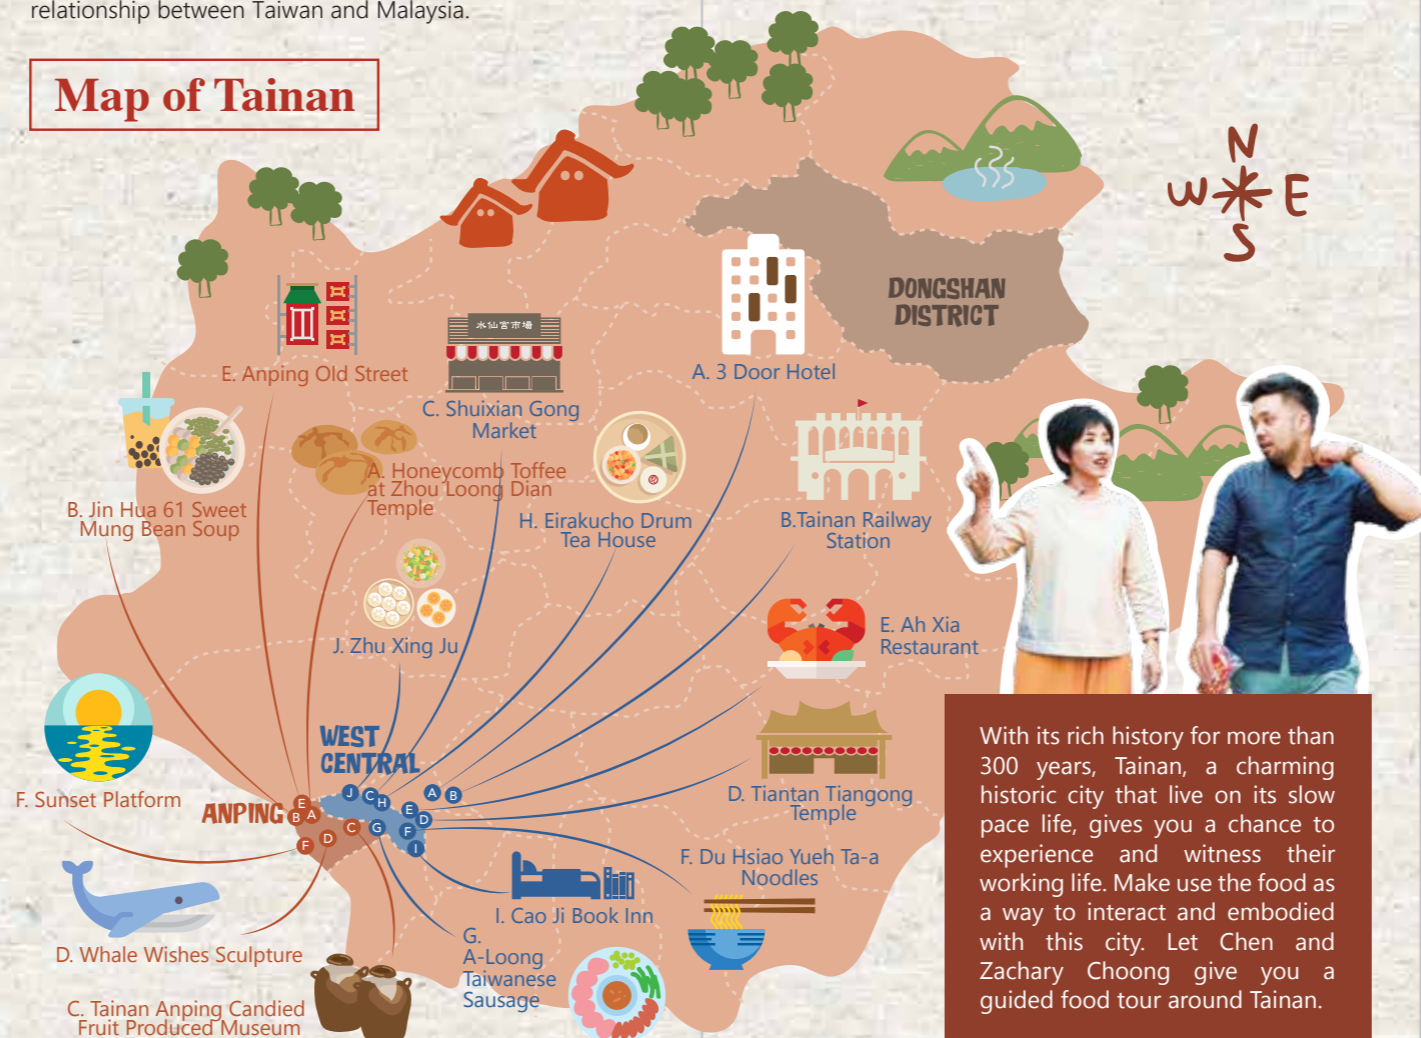

Introduction

Food Writer, Chen Ching Yi

Born in Tainan, a place filled with scrumptious delicacies. She had been a professional food journalist for decades and was known as "The Queen of Taiwanese Cuisine". Inspired by Malaysia's well-known food writer, Lim Jin Chen, she has traveled to Kuala Lumpur, Ipoh, Melaka and Penang, to name a few over a period of time. By putting more attention on locals and foods, she has presented its sense on spiciness, dryness and saltiness of a food and the stories behind the Chinese history and culture, as well as define its food culture relationship between Taiwan and Malaysia.

Map of Tainan

With its rich history for more than 300 years, Tainan, a charming historic city that live on its slow pace life, gives you a chance to experience and witness their working life. Make use the food as a way to interact and embodied with this city. Let Chen and Zachary Choong give you a guided food tour around Tainan.

Introduction
